DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-21 have been examined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-21 are rejected under 35 USC 103(a) as unpatentable over Salmon(US Pat. No: 5,592,375) in view of Esposito(US 6,587,838).
4. As per claims 1-21 Salmon teaches a method for interactively selecting a product in a networked environment(col 1 line 18-col 2 line 55) including a subjective characteristic of the product(Fig 3a/322)(Fig 3b) including category information on the client(Fig 4a-4f) and product criterion(col 13 lines 14-66)as well as a set of hyperlinks through the Internet to vendor computers for product descriptions(Fig 1-3b). Esposito provides real-time notification to the purchaser based on purchaser requirements in a network to match with vendor database goods and services(Abstract)(Fig 1-7) as well as an objective characteristic of the product(Fig 6) and a plurality of selections(Fig 4).It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to combine Salmon in view of Esposito and to apply selection criteria to financial products as a specific application of the art to teach the disclosure. The motivation to combine is to teach an interactive online purchasing system meeting customer requirements and which allows vendors to receive real time information on customer preferences and product needs as enunciated by Esposito(col 2 lines 43-46).

Art Unit: 3624

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

5. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

6. Claims 15,17-21 are further rejected under 35 USC 101 for failing to define a concrete, useful, and tangible output.

Conclusion

7. THIS ACTION IS MADE NON-FINAL.

8.
